

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A recording/reproducing apparatus which can easily select with a simple operation a plurality of image information relevant with each other.

When one desired program is selected from a program list, the data of a recording channel, a recording start time and a recording day of the week are read out, and programs with the same channel number and the recording start time are selected from other remaining programs. In case a day of the week is designated, programs with the same day of the week are selected. Finally, such selected programs are numbered in order starting from an old date and then reproduced in numeric order.